2. "Futurescape City Tours Digital Exhibition" (2013-14) responsible for the design, production and curation with K de Ridder-Vignone, <http://www.futurescapecitytours.org/>
3. "Futurescape City Tours: A Novel Method for Civic Engagement" by C Altamirano Allende*, oversaw production and scripting for 2014 short film on research project.
4. "Where is your Nano?" by Alex Gino, oversaw production and co-wrote script for 2012 short film for CNS outreach and training.

MUSEUM EXHIBITIONS AND GALLERY SHOWS

Emerge: A Festival of Futures (2017) Exhibition/Public Event, Arizona State University, Tempe, AZ. February 25, 2107. (Director; responsible for overall curation, design, marketing & promotion, and production.)

Material Matters (2016) Exhibition, Advancing the Legacy of Anticipatory Governance Gala. Tempe, AZ. May 3-5, 2016. (Co-curator; responsible for selecting pieces; co-installing exhibition; designing visitor interactions; and co-writing curatorial statement of small exhibition)

Futurescape City Tours (2015) Project Exhibition, Making and Doing, Society for the Social Studies of Science. Denver, CO. Nov. 11-14. (Project lead; responsible for exhibit application and design of small exhibition)

Future Things (2014) Exhibition, Oxford Futures Forum. University of Oxford. May 30-31. (Co-curator; responsible for initiating and framing call for works; selecting pieces; installing exhibition; designing visitor interactions; and writing curatorial statement)

Futurescape (2012) Public Gallery. First Friday, Phoenix, AZ. December 7. (Project lead; responsible for designing exhibition, selecting, curating and installing multi-media artefacts, publicizing show, and writing curatorial statement)

Emerge: Redesigning the Future (2012) Gallery Exhibition, ASU Art Museum, April 10 - August 25, 2012. (Co-curator; responsible for the selection and production of artefacts from studio work, drafting of curatorial statement and artefact descriptions, publicity and gallery opening)

APPLIED FORESIGHT RESEARCH

These Applied Foresight Research projects are transdisciplinary future-oriented workshops initiated, designed and led by Selin, regularly drawing students and faculty in dialogue with local and international stakeholders, publics and experts. While a workshop may take place over 1-3 days, substantive preparatory research and coordination precedes the event, and detailed engagement, analysis and writing occur afterwards.

A Year Without A Winter (2016)- Selin, with SFIS's Hannah and the EC's Joint Research Centre, organized a 2-day seminar and workshop held in Ispra, Italy to explore and articulate the policy relevance of artistic and humanistic perspectives on climate futures.

Exploring the Future of Connectedness (2016)- Selin, with Intel strategist Luciano Oviedo, developed a 1.5 foresight workshop focused on the prospects of emerging autonomous technologies for ~80 technology companies at Intel's headquarters in Silicon Valley.

Sensors and Humans in Networked Environment (2016)- Selin with ASU faculty and Intel professionals, co-organized a two-day workshop that drew together a cross-disciplinary and cross-sectoral group to explore the human and social dimensions of the Internet of Things.

Planetary Design: Climate 3.0 (2016)- Selin, with faculty in the School of Space and Earth Exploration at ASU, co-organized this two-day event and was responsible for designing and facilitating 1-day visioning dialogue that engaged ~80 faculty from diverse disciplines in rigorously imagining the world in 2116.

Future of Wastewater Sensing Technology (2015)- Selin, with post-doc Withycombe Keeler, organized and executed this scenarios based research initiative with Rolf Halden and Paul Westerhoff (Sustainable Engineering and the Built Environment, ASU) that engaged 26 people over 1.5 days.

Future of Health Monitoring and Pre-symptomatic Medicine (2015)- Selin, with post-doc Withycombe Keeler, organized and executed this scenarios based research initiative with Stephen Johnston and Neal Woodbury (Center for Innovations in Medicine, ASU) that engaged 24 people over 1.5 days.

Future of Grid-Connected Devices (2013)- Selin, with ASU's Center for the Future of Utilities, directed the 6-month long scenario planning intervention and helped coordinate the assembling of ~25 nation-wide utilities professionals to consider strategic responses to uncertainty.

Futurescape City Tours (2012-2014)- Selin directed this national public engagement research program that engaged ~200 citizens, scientists and policy experts in 6 cities across North America in deliberation about emerging urban innovation and sustainability.

Emerge: Science and Artists Redesign the Future (2012)- Selin, with ASU law professor Garreau and the Thanassis Rikakis (Arts, Media and Engineering, ASU), founded and directed this large-scale event and research enterprise that engaged over 1000 faculty, students, professional and members of the public.

Solar to Fuels: Interdisciplinary Workshop on Energy, Policy and Society (2010)- Selin, with post-doc Sarah Davies, convened ~20 ASU faculty in this custom designed future-focused research workshop that explored a suite of emerging energy technologies.

Visions of Anticipatory Governance (2008)- Selin co-organized this 1.5 day visioning workshop that engaged leaders from across the Center for Nanotechnology in Society in strategic direction setting.

National Citizens' Technology Forum (2008)- Selin was responsible for planning, recruitment, session design and facilitation of the Tempe-based, 2 two-day public engagement sessions with ~20 participants.

The Future of Medical Diagnostics (2007)- Selin organized and executed this scenarios based research initiative with Stephen Johnston and Neal Woodbury (Center for Innovations in Medicine, ASU) that engaged 24 diverse stakeholders over 1.5 days.

TEACHING

ASU COURSES TAUGHT

Futures Thinking and Strategy (SOS 311). School of Sustainability, ASU. 3-credit hour. Selin developed this new course in Spring '13 and in '14, Selin created an online offering. As of Spring '15, this now core SOS course is offered year-round, both online and on campus. Spring 2013; Spring 2014; Fall 2016; Fall 2017.

Winter School on the Anticipatory Governance and Responsible Innovation of Emerging Technologies. Center for Nanotechnology in Society, ASU. Selin has offered two modules each year for the ~15 international students in this weeklong PhD course. January 2012- 2017

Sustainable Futures Studio (SOS 594). School of Sustainability, ASU. 3-credit hour. This problem-based learning studio course engaged graduate students in designing and piloting an innovative public engagement protocol. Fall 2012

After Emerge Studio (AME 499/592). Arts, Media & Engineering, ASU. 3-credit hour. This studio worked to analyse ethnographic and documentary data from a large-scale research project into a gallery exhibition. Spring 2012

Foresight Methodologies (SOS 494). School of Sustainability, ASU. 3-credit hour. New course developed by Selin.
Spring 2012

Future Scenarios, Anticipatory Governance, and Sustainability – Urban Development in Phoenix (SOS 594). School of Sustainability, ASU. 3-credit hour. Co-taught with A. Wiek, this new award winning, ~25 graduate student, problem-based learning course used the City of Phoenix as a live case for developing and testing a framework for sustainability transitions.
Spring 2010
